HONGRONG, JANUARY 25TH, 1876.

By this time, probably, Mr. Kurona, the Japaneso Envoy to Corea, has laid ultimatum before the Government of that country. It is not an unreasonable one, and ought not to provoke opposition. opening of certain Corean posts to trade, the concession of commercial intercourse with the Corean people, and liberty for Japanese vessels to take refuge in Corean ports in the event of bad weather, certainly do not seem very formidable demands, The opening up of Core: to trade would undoubtedly prove quite as advantageous to the people of that country as to the Japanese. Unfortunately, on his return he found his wife out. On enhowever, they fail to perceive this fact, and fear that compliance with the requirements of the MIKADO's Government would be allowing the admission of the thin end of the wedge that is to break up their exclusive system The Coreans have a -morbid dread of the entrance of foreigners into their territory, and they have hitherto succeeded in rigorously excluding them. They are now, He did not bear screams from his wife, although doubtless, in a state of sore perplexity. They must either surrender their cherished isola- p.m. ontil 9 p.m. He had not the least idea of we could spare. And having reached within 60 tion or they must be content to face the consequences of refusal. What these would be may be easily foretold. Two ships of war and three transports accompanied KURODA, and it will be obvious to the Coreans that beside deceased). such a display of force was intended not merely to frighten them into submission, but to compelit, if necessary. It is to be beped, in the nearly of pears and for the welfare of Japan that the Coreans will not set Kurona at defiance. But we are afraid a collision is the deceased that night, inevitable. It is impossible as yet to say positively what attitude Chi may take in the matter. If she bas in mated to the King of Cones that it will be advisable for him to yield to the Japanese demands. war will be averted. But if, as is more probable, the Peking Government, has the Coreans will, relying on its assistance, know the lukong again. Mr. Mour, who has been the deceased. despatched to Peking, to ascertain, if possible, the mind of China on the subject, may perhaps succeed in inducing the Chinese Authorities to maintain a neutral position in the settlement of the dispute between Japan and Coren; but this is not very likely, unless they consider that their present embarrassments are sufficient to occupy their attention. But even if they should at first hold off, it is improbable that they would test, once commenced, might prove well nigh Souza at 12 o'clock. ruinous to both. Government has not, perhaps, taken into consideration. It is more than likely that Russia may object to have Japan as a neighbour on the mainland. Her frontier is now co-terminous with that of Corea on the coast, and it improbable that she would regard with equanimity the permanent occupation of the peninsula by Japan. The Czan's Government may entertain some designs of incorporating Corea in the Russian dominions. It is, at all events, as well worth having as Saghalien, for its acquisition would give the Russians possession of barbours in the Far East accessible all the year round. It must be apparent, even to the most superficial observer of the progress of events, that Russia is slowly but surely advancing both her juliuence and her trontier in Asia. She is strong and aggressive. When she comes into collision with any Asiatic nation that nation, must go down before her. It is difficult to set any limit to her advance. In the course of time she may rule over not only Corea bu all China. Her statesmen may or may not have contemplated this possibility. They may nover have felt any anxiety about annexing Corea. But if it is overrun and subjugated by the Japanese, their attention will

I have nothing further to mind their recent acquisition of Saghalien, they will not be inclined, we imagine, to permit the Japanese to rotain possession be carried to the seconds of the repairs of the of the country if they succeed in conquering it. Indeed, it is hard to see what Japan can gain by going to war with this troublesome and refractory people. Good may result. Obuirman, seconded by Mr. McIver. possibly, in the opening up of the country to commerce, but this will hardly recompense the Japanese for the large outlay the expedition will be tolerably certain to entail. It was a great pity the Mikado's Government eyer thought of sending an Envoy to Corea. Ample satisfaction had already been exacted by the capture and destruction of the offending fort, and the honour of Japan had been fully vindicated in the eyes of the world. It was simple folly to attempt to impose terms on such a people. Already, it seems, they have practically thrown down the glove to Japan; for, if the Mainishi Shinbun is to be trusted, the forerunner of Kuropa has returned the intelligence that the King of COREA has refused to receive the Japanese Envoy Extraordinary, and is ready to take up, arms against Japan. About midnight the prisoner I propose it be taken as rend. This was narged to, and The CHAIRMAN proceeded-The different items speak for themselves, and I have soaronly anything to add to what the Report contains,

During the last six menths this company has suffered from a great many difficulties. We have bad to contend with opposition from two lines, and the new steamer, the White Cloud, was not roady until three months after the time she was expected be ready for sen. The Kiulaany had to undergo heavy repairs, which kept ber from running for over two months. Taking all these things into cobsideration I think we may be well satisfied with the repult. The company is in a good position, and all the steamers are now in a satisfactory condition. It is true we still have to contend with great opposition, but we need not be afraid of I think we may confidently look forward to the future. I feel confident you will fully approve of our roofmmending a dividend of only four per cent this balf-year, seeing the position be aroused, and the future will be thought of the company and the difficulties we have had remark, but before moving the adoption of the Report, I shall be happy to answer any questions Mr. LEGGE asked if the $20,000 put down to

It has been a long to the ground. The intives in the interior who recognized rule in warfare that all cottle and were questioned, attribute it to the great loss at other plander collected in the conquered districts Paron; they put it down at 80 killed and 200 through which the troops have passed shall be wounded and eny that their fighting men were afterwards sold, and whatever is realized by such all more or less demoralized and would not be sale be divided amongst the troops as prizeinduced to make another stand. The 10th and the Arab Contingent have certainly had the bonour of bearing the brunt of the fighting; in fact with the exception of Captain Changer and the men of the 1st Goorkhas, who surprised the stockades in the Bukit Putus pass, they are the only portion of the troops who have been under fire in this expedition. For their gallant attack on the powerful stockades of Paroa, under the command of Lieut, Hinxman, they have scarcely received the appreciation due to their efforts, nor has the results of that repulse to the enemy been sufficiently room?nized. There is now no doubt that the repulse of the enemy from Paroa on the 7th inst., saved Sunghie Ujong, (and most probably also asved Malacea from a raid of the Rambow men; who. it is said were only waiting intelligence of the success of the advance of the Sri Menanti people on Sunghie Ujong before making their descent) as the enemy was advancing steadily day by day, erecting stockades as they advanced and had even pushed their advanced works up to within 800 yards of the Klana's residence; they were aware of there being only 40 of the 10th Regiment at Rassa available to check their advance, and that the Klana, owing to the treuchery of his own people, could not produce even 100 armed followers; and if Lieutenant Hinzman bad waited a few more days instead of taking the buil by the horne and holdly attacking them in their own strongholds, there is no doubt that the troops would have been besieged in Rassa by an overwhelming force, finshed with imaginary success, and driven almost to frenzy by the hope of carrying out their oft repeated threat of driving the British into the sea, To that gallant little band, amounting only to 130 men, who bravely attacked and defeated with great loss an enemy who at the lowest computation amounted to over 700 in number, entrenched in powerful. stockades situated in a position rendered almost unapproachable by natural impediments, and chosen with more regard to military requirements than one would give the Malays the credit of possessing, all honour is due, and to $6032. New Beneros nominally quoted at their hard and dearly bought victory may be $570. At the close yesterday, a fair business attributed the subsequent case with which the was also done in Old Milwa at $590, without British troops maroued through the Malay allowance; and on the same terms parcels of States and districts "never before tradden by New Malwa bave been also placed yesterday GLOYES. the foot of the white man;" and the feeble and to-day likewise. resistance which the enemy made even at Bukit Putus, in a position which 100 determined men
